ORDER

Heard.

2. This writ petition has been filed by the petitioner under Article 226 of the Constitution of India seeking the following reliefs:-

"(i) It is humbly prayed that the petition may kindly be allowed by issuing the appropriate writ, order, or direction to quash the order Annexure P/1 Dated 15/01/2024 and set aside the order Annexure P/2 Dated 31/07/2024 respectively.

(ii) That, this petition be allowed and the petitioner be awarded suitable compensation as this Hon'ble court may deem fit.

(iii) To award the cost of the petition.

(iv) To grant any other relief, as may be deemed proper by this Hon'ble Court, in the facts and circumstances of the case, to the petitioner."

3. The petitioner is aggrieved by the order dated 31.07.2024, passed in an appeal by the Commissioner, Indore, affirming the order of externment dated 15.01.2024, passed by the District Magistrate, Dewas.

4. In brief, the facts of the case are that the petitioner is a resident of Village Bhramankheda, District – Dewas and has a criminal history, which led the respondent No.3 to issue a notice to the petitioner under the provisions of M.P. Rajya Suraksha Adhiniyam, 1990 (hereinafter referred to as ‘the Adhiniyam of 1990’) on 20.11.2023.

5. It is submitted that the last offence alleged to have been committed by the petitioner under the IPC was in the year 2022, u/ss. 294, 323, 506, 324 and 34 of IPC, at Crime No.182 of 2022, and after that, prohibitory proceedings were initiated against the petitioner under Section 110 of Cr.P.C registered at Crime No.43/2023 and thus, it is submitted that the petitioner may have a history of criminal cases, but he had not indulged in any criminal activities one year prior to the issuance of the notice dated 20.11.2023 to him by the D.M. under Section 5 of the Adhiniyam of 1990. Thus, it is submitted that the impugned orders are liable to be quashed on this ground only as the respondents have relied upon old and stale cases against the petitioner, and there were no such circumstances existed, which may be said to be prejudicial to the public peace. Thus, it is submitted that the impugned orders be quashed, and the petition be allowed.

6. Counsel for the respondents/State has opposed the prayer and it is submitted that looking to the criminal antecedents of the petitioner, no case for interference is made out.

7. Heard. Having considered the rival submissions and on perusal of the record, it is found that in the present case, the initial recommendation under Section 5 (a)(b) was made by the respondent No.4, S.P. Dewas to the respondent No.3 District Magistrate, Dewas on 31.10.2023, recommending externment of the petitioner, in which, details of five cases were given which were committed by the petitioner from the year 2020 to 2023. The fifth case was a prohibitory proceedings under Section 110 of Cr.P.C whereas, the last case under the IPC was under Sections 294, 323, 324, 506 and 34 registered at Crime No.182/2022 in the year 2022. Pursuant to the aforesaid recommendation, a show cause notice was issued to the petitioner on 20.11.2023 and thereafter, the final order was passed on 15.01.2024. Thus, apparently, the externment proceedings were initiated against the petitioner after a period of around one year. This Court, time and again has emphasized the timely action in the proceedings arising out of the Adhiniyam of 1990. Thus, if the timely action is not taken under the Adhiniyam of 1990, it frustrates the entire object of the Adhiniyam. Reference in this regard may be had to the decision rendered by this Court in the case of Gangaram S/o Shri Kanha Ji Vs. Commissioner, Indore Division & another passed in W.P. 3213 of 2021 dated 30.12.2021, the relevant paras of the same read as under:-

“10. It is also not disputed that in the show cause notice, reference of only one case was made, which was registered on 24.09.2018; and the show cause notice was issued on 11.09.2020 i.e. after almost two years of the registration of the offence, whereas the impugned order has been passed by the District Magistrate, Burhanpur on 07.12.2020. Thus, it is apparent that not only that the impugned order has been passed after two years of the case registered against the petitioner, but it also contained reference of one more case registered against the petitioner on

14.10.2020. This Court in the case of Sudeep Patel vs. The State of M. P. passed in M. P. No.904/2017 on 09.01.2018 has already held that the purpose of initiation of externment proceedings is to restrain a person from committing another offence in the near future and in such circumstances the order of externment must be passed within the close proximity of the offences committed by the petitioner. The relevant paras of the same are reads as under:-

“8. In the considered opinion of this Court, the learned District Magistrate while passing the impugned order was oblivious of the statement of object and reasons of Madhya Pradesh Rajya Suraksha Adhiniyam, 1990 which provides as under :

“STATEMENT OF OBJECT AND REASONS

For want of adequate enabling provisions in existing laws for taking effective preventive action to counteract activities of anti-social elements Government have been handicapped to maintain law and order. In order to take timely and effective preventive action it is felt that the Government should be armed with adequate power to nip the trouble in the bud so that peace, tranquility and orderly Government may not be endangered.

9. Even according to section 3 of the Adhiniyam of 1990 which is in respect of power to make restriction order, it is for preventing any person from acting prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order. Thus the sole purpose of the Adhiniyam of 1990 is to act timely and effectively to initiate preventive action against a wrongdoer, which object, in the considered opinion of this Court has been totally lost sight of while passing the impugned order. As is already observed that the show cause notice was issued on 11.6.2015, the reply was filed by the petitioner on 14.7.2015 and thereafter the final order was passed by the District Magistrate after recording the statements of various police personnel on 23.5.2017, whereas the District Magistrate ought to have proceeded with the matter expeditiously without affording any undue adjournments to either of the parties and passed the order within a reasonable time but the matter was kept pending for almost two years. In such circumstances, although no period of limitation is provided in the Adhiniyam, but still, the order should have been passed by the District Magistrate within a reasonable time frame. The order in itself was passed by the District Magistrate within a period of around two years and during this entire period the petitioner was roaming around freely and there is no allegation that during this period also he committed any offense, thus the application of the provisions of Adhiniyam appears to be totally redundant.

10. The District Magistrates, exercising their powers under the Adhiniyam must understand that it is not a mere formality which they have to perform before passing the order of externment under the Adhiniyam which directly affects a person's life and liberty guaranteed under Article 19(1)(d) of the Constitution of India. This court is of the opinion that in a way, the preventive detention is akin to the provisions of externment under the Adhiniyam for both these measures are preventive in nature and are enacted with a view to provide safe environment to the public at large. The only difference being that in case of preventive detention, the threat is imminent and serious whereas in case of externment, its degree is somewhat obtuse and mollified and is not as serious as it is in the case of preventive detention. The necessity to pass an order of preventive detention has been emphasized by the Apex Court in the case of State of Maharashtra and others v. Bhaurao Punjabrao Gawande, (2008) 3 SCC 613 which is equally applicable to the cases of externment. The relevant paras of the same read as under:-

“Preventive detention: Meaning and concept

32. There is no authoritative definition of “preventive detention” either in the Constitution or in any other statute. The expression, however, is used in contradistinction to the word “punitive”. It is not a punitive or penal provision but is in the nature of preventive action or precautionary measure. The primary object of preventive detention is not to punish a person for having done something but to intercept him before he does it. To put it differently, it is not a penalty for past activities of an individual but is intended to pre-empt the person from indulging in future activities sought to be prohibited by a relevant law and with a view to preventing him from doing harm in future.

33. In Haradhan Saha v. State of W.B. explaining the concept of preventive detention, the Constitution Bench of this Court, speaking through Ray, C.J. stated: (SCC p. 205, para 19)

“19. The essential concept of preventive detention is that the detention of a person is not to punish him for something he has done but to prevent him from doing it. The basis of detention is the satisfaction of the executive of a reasonable probability of the likelihood of the detenu acting in a manner similar to his past acts and preventing him by detention from doing the same. A criminal conviction on the other hand is for an act already done which can only be possible by a trial and legal evidence.

There is no parallel between prosecution in a court of law and a detention order under the Act. One is a punitive action and the other is a preventive act. In one case a person is punished on proof of his guilt and the standard is proof beyond reasonable doubt whereas in preventive detention a man is prevented from doing something which it is necessary for reasons mentioned in Section 3 of the Act to prevent.”

34. In another leading decision in Khudiram Das v. State of W.B. this Court stated: (SCC pp. 90-91, para 8)

“8. ... The power of detention is clearly a preventive measure. It does not partake in any manner of the nature of punishment. It is taken by way of precaution to prevent mischief to the community. Since every preventive measure is based on the principle that a person should be prevented from doing something which, if left free and unfettered, it is reasonably probable he would do, it must necessarily proceed in all cases, to some extent, on suspicion or anticipation as distinct from proof.

Patanjali Sastri, C.J. pointed out in State of Madras v. V.G. Row that preventive detention is ‘largely precautionary and based on suspicion’ and to these observations may be added the following words uttered by the learned Chief Justice in that case with reference to the observations of Lord Finlay in R. v. Halliday, namely, that ‘the court was the least appropriate tribunal to investigate into circumstances of suspicion on which such anticipatory action must be largely based’.

This being the nature of the proceeding, it is impossible to conceive how it can possibly be regarded as capable of objective assessment. The matters which have to be considered by the detaining authority are whether the person concerned, having regard to his past conduct judged in the light of the surrounding circumstances and other relevant material, would be likely to act in a prejudicial manner as contemplated in any of sub-clauses ( i ), ( ii ) and ( iii ) of Clause (1) of sub-section (1) of Section 3, and if so, whether it is necessary to detain him with a view to preventing him from so acting.

 35. Recently, in Naresh Kumar Goyal v. Union of India the Court said: (SCC p. 280, para 8)

“8. It is trite law that an order of detention is not a curative or reformatory or punitive action, but a preventive action, avowed object of which being to prevent the anti-social and subversive elements from imperilling the welfare of the country or the security of the nation or from disturbing the public tranquillity or from indulging in smuggling activities or from engaging in illicit traffic in narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, etc. Preventive detention is devised to afford protection to society.

The authorities on the subject have consistently taken the view that preventive detention is devised to afford protection to society. The object is not to punish a man for having done something but to intercept before he does it, and to prevent him from doing so. It, therefore, becomes imperative on the part of the detaining authority as well as the executing authority to be very vigilant and keep their eyes skinned but not to turn a blind eye in securing the detenu and executing the detention order because any indifferent attitude on the part of the detaining authority or executing authority will defeat the very purpose of preventive action and turn the detention order as a dead letter and frustrate the entire proceedings.

Inordinate delay, for which no adequate explanation is furnished, led to the assumption that the live and proximate link between the grounds of detention and the purpose of detention is snapped. (See P.U. Iqbal v. Union of India, Ashok Kumar v. Delhi Admn. And Bhawarlal Ganeshmalji v. State of T.N.)”

11. Thus, testing the validity of the impugned order on the anvil of the principles so laid down by the Apex Court, it becomes manifestly clear that the order is flawed and cannot be sustained as there is an inordinate delay in passing the impugned order, which has led to loose (sic.) its effectiveness.”

(Emphasis Supplied)

8. Thus, it has already been held by this Court that such proceedings of externment must be initiated without wasting any further time, as the very purpose of the externment proceedings is to ensure that no further crime is committed by the offender in the immediate future. In such circumstances, this Court has no hesitation to hold that the impugned orders cannot be sustained in the eyes of law, in the light of the fact that the proceedings were initiated after more than one year from the date of last offence committed by him, which was also a petty offenceu/ss.294, 323, 324, 506 and 34 of IPC.

9. Accordingly, the petition stands allowed, and the impugned orders dated 15.01.2024 and 31.07.2024 are hereby quashed.

10. With the aforesaid, the petition stands allowed and disposed of.
